Cochon 555 2.9.14

It's back!!! Cochon 555, my favorite event of the year returns to Miami on February 9, 2014. The Four Seasons is hosting the event again and the field is loaded. It includes two time competitor and defending champion Aaron Brooks. Aaron will be tough to beat but I'm sure the talented field will make this a very tough battle.

I highly recommend attending this event and enjoying the impressive creations of our local chefs. There is a ton of great food to taste along with wine and spirits too.

This year's competing chefs include Jose Mendin of The Pubbelly Group, Conor Hanlon of The Dutch, Bradley Herron of Michael's Genuine Food & Drink, Aaron Brooks of EDGE Steak & Bar and Dena Marino of MC Kitchen. The five chefs, champions to the pig, will battle it out in a friendly competition by preparing a maximum of six dishes each created from one whole heritage breed pig to win votes from a crowd of hungry gourmants and celebrated judges. In celebration of the tour's 6th anniversary, Rick Mace of Cafe Boulud will prepare an additional late-night sixth pig in an Asian Speakeasy style before dessert and prior to the awards ceremony.
